Newsletter
January 2011

Once again another exceptional and marvelous edition of the OPC newsletter.

The January meeting will be on Monday the 24th at the usual time and location, 7:00 PM, downtown at the Museum of Science and History, 122 E. Second street. Entrance is through the Second street door.

New President!

Scott clinks glass with a spoon.

Clink clink clink clink clink clink.

Attention everyone, attention.

Big news this month. After five years of excellent service, outstanding work, and exceptional contributions, our former president John London has passed the torch. A few months ago John decided to retire as president. He steered the club for five great years and we were lucky to have his talent spearheading our group. His leadership was a fantastic asset. He will still be a member of the club and he and his camera will continue to take us to new and eye catching places as well as familiar places from a different angle. Thanks John for five years of superb leadership.

And now please WELCOME our new president and award winning photographer

Gerald McDowell

To start the new year he will be presenting a video titled

Ansel Adams on Ansel Adams

I don't know anything about it but I'm guessing it's going to be all about Ansel Adams (smile).

It sounds like a type of autobiography to me and I'm anxious to see it and find out all about it.

You won't want to miss this opportunity so be sure to get a seat for what I'm sure will be a fascinating presentation.

Also this month is

DUES MONTH

Contest Information

And now for the monthly contest information.

The theme was "Low Key"

And the winners are . . .

1st place goes to OPC Member Paul Morsey for his photograph titled “Art Museum as Art”

Second place went to OPC member Elmon Coe for his photo titled “Low Key”

Honorable Mention went to David Walker for his photograph titled “Self Portrait”

Congratulations Paul, Elmon, and David. Superb job.

The theme for January is “Night Shots” That brings to mind all kind of possibilities. It could be Fourth of July fireworks, or Times Square in NYC on new year’s eve, or a sharpshooter doing a trick shot at night and hitting a target that bursts into flames.

Use your imagination and bring a photo that you think best illustrates this theme.

Also at this month's meeting will be the announcement of the 2010 attendance / participation award. Joan has tallied up all the points and the winner will be announced Monday night.

Financial report

And finally there's the financial report. But our treasurer has been busy out of town this month and she hasn't had time to prepare it. So next month will be a double report.

And that's all for now
See everyone at the meeting
